Spawn4Good 3

January 14-16 2017

The Spawn On Me podcast's mission has always been entertainment coupled with social consciousness. Whether the subject was diverse character representation in the games we play or the importance of diverse voices in video games' creative process the hosts have and will remain outspoken advocates for inclusion. Brookago has always been a place where everyone is welcomed where their voice, and life, matters.

It was this foundation that led to the creation of Spawn On Me's signature philanthropic event, Spawn4Good. Now in its third year, Spawn4Good occurs every Martin Luther King Day weekend and has been a way for Brookago to give back to communities that have often been overlooked. The inaugural S4G started in 2015 by raising awareness about people of color who had been murdered by police. The money raised was split between the New York Lawyer's Guild and Erica Garner, the daughter of Eric Garner who died at the hands of the New York Police Department in the summer of 2014. S4G2 helped to celebrate and educate people on women's reproductive rights with all of the proceeds going to the National Network of Abortion Funds. Together these two events have raised almost $10,000 for people who desperately needed the help.

In keeping with the theme of bringing light to causes that can use further illumination, the Spawn On Me podcast is happy to announce that Spawn4Good 2017 (S4G3) will be looking to raise awareness about foster care. It is our privilege to announce that we have partnered with One Simple Wish. Through their tireless efforts and innovative process One Simple Wish has been able to make wishes come true for thousands of foster children around the country. It is our hope that through the efforts of the hosts, the streamers and our community that we will be able to help a multitude of more children during our weekend of gaming.
